
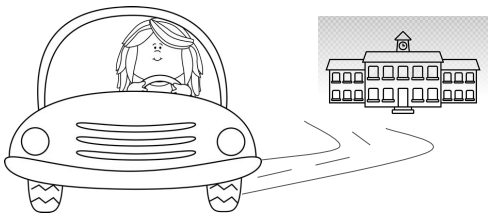
Kathlene has woken up late once again for her 8AM class. She is known for always being late and hopes to break the habit.

Kathlene hates walking 50 minutes to get to class so she always is driving

Kathlene is also a big complainer and talks about her problems to everyone even if they dont care what she has to say.

One day Kathlene gets a call from a friend telling her about an app that helps with her parking on campus problem

Kathlene decides to download the app her friend told her about and realizes she's been living a lie.



Thanks to Kathlene's one true friend, she now can park on the campus without a problem and shows up to classes on time!
